Help us to help people live healthier lives

Director, Health Assessment

At Prudential, we help people get the most out of life. We deliver that purpose by helping people to live better, happier and healthier. If you're an experienced medical professional with credentials to practise in the city, you can not only make a world of difference to our team of medical professionals, but also help our customers to have better, healthier lives. Do check out this exciting opportunity with the leading international insurance brand in Asia, with over 170 years of proud global heritage. Come, shape the future, for yourself and for Prudential.

What you'll do in this role:

- Lead a team of talented medical professionals, support their career growth and development
- Own the process of medical health assessments enabling the underwriting of life insurance products
- Help develop dynamic life and health products with your expert medical knowledge and insights
- Build skills and understanding of relevant people across the organisation, particularly those facing the customers, by providing training and knowledge on up-to-date medical developments
- Lead health assessments of life insurance product applications and claim submissions
- Be the internal and external spokesperson for Prudential Hong Kong on medial issues

What you need to thrive in this role:

- A tertiary medical degree from a recognised institution and registration with the Medical Council of Hong Kong SAR
- At least 10 years of post-qualification work experience, preferably as a general practitioner
- Experience of leading a team of medical professionals, ideally in corporate environment or with a healthcare service provider
- Fluent in English, Cantonese and Mandarin with strong interpersonal skills
- A genuine passion for working in teams and helping people and working
